

A B S T R A C T

09843381

A process is provided for the customisation of consumer products, wherein said consumer products are prepared according to selections of product characteristics and made by a consumer, optionally reconstituted with one or more other components, and dispensed from a vending system at the point-of-sale of said consumer products. A vending system is also provided for the customisation of consumer products, wherein said consumer products are prepared according to selections of product characteristics and made by a consumer, optionally reconstituted with one or more other components and dispensed from said vending system at the point-of-sale of said consumer products.

FOIA b7 - D